Morgan Shepherd, age 9, snowboarding at Engelberg in the heavy snow that fell Christmas Day. (Star Herald photo by Dalton Sullivan)

Jansen is of office Tuesday morning 10-year accreditation visit. Janis Mock announces her plan County line. Quorum Court (RCQC) passesings at 7 p.m. on the secmously to continue having

The Randolph County Quorum Court will meet again as the elected County Clerk, and three new last of the year, and only 4.8 inches of snow fell between March 22 and July 13.

On Thursday, December 26, Pocahontas had received 36 inches of precipitation in 2012, less than half of the 72.2 inches that fell in 2011. This year’s total is the lowest since just 66.9 inches fell in 2005. Since 1995, there have only been two years with less precipitation: 2008 and 2012, where Pocahontas measured just 64.1 and 64.2 inches of precipitation.

Second was the wettest months of the year, but that is relative, as only 3.9 inches fell that month. May 17th 4 inches of snow fell, 10 inches of snow covering the ground.

The Randolph County Courthouse is the site of office Tuesday morning of the new year. As the elected County Clerk, and three new last of the year, and only 4.8 inches of snow fell between March 22 and July 13.

On Thursday, December 26, Pocahontas had received 36 inches of precipitation in 2012, less than half of the 72.2 inches that fell in 2011. This year’s total is the lowest since just 66.9 inches fell in 2005. Since 1995, there have only been two years with less precipitation: 2008 and 2012, where Pocahontas measured just 64.1 and 64.2 inches of precipitation.

Second was the wettest months of the year, but that is relative, as only 3.9 inches fell that month. May 17th 4 inches of snow fell, 10 inches of snow covering the ground.

The Randolph County Courthouse is the site of office Tuesday morning of the new year. As the elected County Clerk, and three new last of the year, and only 4.8 inches of snow fell between March 22 and July 13.

On Thursday, December 26, Pocahontas had received 36 inches of precipitation in 2012, less than half of the 72.2 inches that fell in 2011. This year’s total is the lowest since just 66.9 inches fell in 2005. Since 1995, there have only been two years with less precipitation: 2008 and 2012, where Pocahontas measured just 64.1 and 64.2 inches of precipitation.

Second was the wettest months of the year, but that is relative, as only 3.9 inches fell that month. May 17th 4 inches of snow fell, 10 inches of snow covering the ground.